Maine’s Community Public Health System is built on our 27 Healthy Maine Partnerships. Maine is one of only three states without local or county public health departments. Instead, HMPs provide the necessary platform for Maine communities to attract private, state, and federal resources for education, prevention, emerging health threats, and other traditional public health department services.